

Seat Belt for Forklifts

Forklift Seat Belts - Explained in the Regulation guidelines are the application of seatbelts and operator restraints on lift trucks. It says that the accountability falls on the employers' to ensure that every machine, piece of equipment and tool is utilized correctly utilized according to the directions of the manufacturer.

Rough Terrain forklifts ought to meet the guidelines of ANSI Standard ASME B56.6-1992 in regards to their use, design, maintenance, inspection and fabrication.

Side boom tractors and mobile machinery along with a Rollover Protective Structure, or ROPS for short, need to include seat belts which satisfy the requirements of the Society of Automotive Engineers, or SAE, Standard J386 JUN93, Operator Restraint System for Off-Road Work Machines. If any mobile machinery includes seat belts required by law, the operator and subsequent passengers have to make certain they use the belts every time the vehicle is in motion or engaged in operation for the reason that this could cause the machinery to become unstable and thus, unsafe.

When a seat belt or other driver restraint is needed on a forklift.

While working a lift truck, the seat belt requirements would depend on some factors. Contributing factors to this determination might include whether the the forklift is equipped together with a Rollover Protective Structure, the kind of lift truck itself and the year the lift truck was manufactured. The manufacturer's instructions and the requirements of the applicable standard are referenced in the Regulation.

With regards to powered industrial lift trucks, ANSI Standard ASME B56.1-1993 refers to a driver restraint device, enclosure or system. An operator restraint device, system, or enclosure is intended to be able to aid the operator in lessening the possibility of entrapment of the head and/or torso between the truck and the ground in the event of a tip over. The restraint device or system could comprise a seat belt, though a seat belt is not essentially a part of such equipment or system.
